Mrs. Clark Re-Elected Junior Club Head

Spelling Bee, Skit and Singing by Miss Harshaw Feature Meeting

PLAN BANQUET THURS.

The Junior Community Club held its annual election of officers last Thursday at the Club Room, Community Building. Mrs. Ellsworth Clark turned over the chair to the first vice-president, Mrs. James D. Moore, to conduct the elections, as the nominating committee, with Miss Margaret Kent as chairman, presented its slate.

Election returns were as follows: President, Mrs. Ellsworth B. Clark; first vice-president, Mrs. James D. Moore; second vice-president, Mrs. Harold Griest; recording secretary, Miss Virginia Steinfeld; corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Burrell, and treasurer, Miss Margaret Livingston.

Miss Albert Davis was chosen a delegate to the State Convention, to be held in Philadelphia in October.

A program of entertainment, arranged by Mrs. Moore, social program chairman, followed. Bala-Cynwyd Juniors were present as guests, and the president of their club and the Narberth president were instructed to choose sides for a spelling-bee. Mrs. Bernard Keenan, senior advisor, gave the words, and it seemed difficult for her at first to break through the bulwarks of either line. However, a gradual diminishing of numbers was noticed, and the Bala-Cynwyd side were pronounced victors, with Miss Mona Lyle, a Narberth visitor, the individual winner. A small prize was awarded Miss Lyle for her success.

In the meantime, a cast of club members had been preparing for a little skit, a pantomime, entitled "The Light Went Out," and were introduced to the company present. Mrs. Ellsworth Clark did the reading, and the characters included Miss Davis, as the heroine; Mrs. Edward Corrigan, as the mother; Miss Steinfeld, as the villain, and Miss Margaret Burrell, as the hero. Mrs. Moore was behind

Upper Schuylkill to be Scene of Regatta

Yale, Penn and Columbia Crews to Race Here This Saturday

PARKING RULES GIVEN

Residents of the Main Line will have their first opportunity to view an intercollegiate boat race virtually from their doorsteps this Saturday when the Yale, Columbia and Pennsylvania crews meet on the Upper Schuylkill in the Blackwell Cup Regatta.

The course, recently selected by the University of Pennsylvania, supplants that formerly used on the lower part of the river.

There will be four races between the Varsity, Junior Varsity, Freshman and 150-pound crews of the three universities. The varsity race will be the last run.

The finish of the mile and a half course will be opposite the intersection of River road and Mill Creek road. The start will be just above Youngsford road's intersection with River road.

The course may be approached on River road, starting at Belmont avenue bridge, or by Mary Waters Ford road to River road, or by Mill Creek road to River road.

According to regulations announced yesterday by Superintendent Charles P. Smith, of the Lower Merion police, there will be one-way traffic on Mill Creek road, from Rose Glen road to River road, with parking on one side for this distance.

One-way traffic will be enforced on River road from Mill Creek road to Youngsford road, the section facing the course, with parking allowed on the east side of the road.

Youngsford road, which will serve as the chief exit from the course area, has just been resurfaced and will be completed by Saturday. Traffic in either direction will be permitted on this road, although it will not be of any advantage in going east, due to the one-way traffic on River road.

The regulations will be in force from 1.30 P. M. until after the races are over.

An observation train, brought specially from Derby, Conn., where it is used for the Yale races on the Housatonic river, will be run over the Pennsylvania Railroad on the Philadelphia bank opposite.

Last Rites to be Held This Morning for Narberth Priest, Rev. Robert F. Hayes

The Rev. Robert F. Hayes, rector of St. Margaret's Catholic Church, Narberth, died on Monday morning at 9 A. M. in Misericordia Hospital. He had been ill for a year, but was believed to be on the way to recovery until a recent relapse.

Funeral services will be held at St. Margaret's this Friday with Divine Office at 9.30 and Solemn Requiem Mass at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Richard Kelly will be the celebrant of the Mass and Absolution of the body will be given by Cardinal Dougherty. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery.

Rector of St. Margaret's since September, 1926, when he succeeded the late Rev. Richard F. Cowley, Father Hayes was born in Phoenixville, October 10, 1879. He attended St. Joseph's College and the Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, Overbrook. He was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Prendergast on May 31, 1905.

His first Mission was St. Bernard's at Easton, where he remained for five years. In 1911 he was assigned to St. Mary's Church, Coaldale, Pennsylvania, where he served as pastor for 15 years.

On the silver jubilee of his ordination to the Priesthood in 1930, Father Hayes was the recipient of a surprise testimonial dinner from his parishioners, held in Elm Hall, Narberth.

Father Hayes was the spiritual director of the Catholic Information League and a member of the Holy Name Society.

Ever active for the welfare of his parish, Father Hayes was instrumental in securing a new organ for the church, the school facilities were increased by him and the rectory remodeled.

He is survived by four brothers, William Hayes, of Narberth; James and John Hayes, of Philadelphia; the Rev. Joseph A. Hayes, of Reading, and a sister, Mother Immaculata, superior of Green Tree Academy, near Paoli.

Search for the measure of a man and see if it squares with the nature of the task appointed for him. The livery of Christ can be a mere habitment. Whither goest the man so clad? What are his concerns and what are his affections? Behold the poor, and see him in the midst of them, their father and their friend, their hope and their chiefest consolation.

And these children, like unto whom you must become, lest the Kingdom of Heaven shall be denied you, who vies with him in their loves and whose grief is keener, now that he has gone. Their own sweet and simple faith was ever a gracious benediction to him, a perennial source of the youthful ardor of his own fine soul, and no casual direction did he give the school which harbored them, but always, as strength lasted, a personal freighting of spiritual stores into the hearts of the little ones, the most precious of his solitudes.

Harken, friend, to his tale of the use of it all, the saving and the scraping and the sacrifice, that the far lines beyond the horizon should beckon enterprise of eternal days, as well as of earthly concerns, that men should have a true perspective of the Divine scheme, a chartered course, sure and sound and true, to his Father's household.

In his province lived the Italians, long scions of a universal church, but strange withal in a new land and apt, mayhaps, to forget. See him provide well for them, observe his daily ministrations amongst them, and note the missionaries of their own tongue whom he regularly secured for their souls' rejuvenation. Significant, possibly, is the fact that the day before he died the customary Italian mission had just been concluded and with results more fruitful than on any previous occasion.

Superbly staunch in his convictions, complaining not at all of the ailments which baffled the achievements of his heart's desires, it was not difficult to discern, without word from him, that his exceeding sorrow was in the contemplation of a task undone, as he surveyed it—not in the terrible physical misery which racked his body.

He quits the earth in the prime of his years, doomed to die when life needed him so much, and, as the Master calleth, his parishioners, loving him with a great gratitude, shall acclaim the five blessed years he was their pastor and the impress of his sojourn shall long be a holy and hallowed thing in their memories.

Father Hayes was a good priest.

Citizens' Committee to Report on Merger and Present Petition at Meeting on Tuesday

Boys Meet at School

All Narberth boys who desire to take part in the Boy Week Parade this Saturday, which will wind up the week's activities on the Main Line, should be at the Narberth School at 9.30. They will be furnished transportation to and from Bryn Mawr, and will be accompanied by the hook and ladder of the Narberth Fire Company, which will participate in the parade.

Narberth Troop Two Wins First Honors in Meet

The new Boy Scout Troop, No. 2, of Narberth, won the trophy for high score at the standard meet of the Main Line District, which was held at the Merion Tribute House last Saturday afternoon.

With a score of 78 the troop was 15 points ahead of Wynnewood, who placed second in number of points scored.

The two Narberth Troops were the only ones to win the Red, White and Blue Ribbon for making the standard grade in four events.

Narberth No. 2 made this grade in inspection, knot-tying, signalling, and first aid. It also won 18 points in the unknown event. At a given signal the various teams were required to demonstrate their ability to rescue a companion who had dropped through thin ice at a distance of 35 feet from the shore line. In this same event there was a test in first aid and another in observation.

As Narberth No. 2 is the youngest troop in the district, the boys have very good reason to be proud of their newly acquired trophies.

Narberth Players to Give "The Shelf" as Final Play

The Narberth Players have announced that the final performance of the season will be a comedy-drama entitled "The Shelf," instead of the "13th Chair," as formerly planned. "The Shelf" is a highly modern and swift-moving comedy, with good opportunity to present the talents of some of the seasoned actors of the group, as well as one or two new stars who are sure to please.

The play will be given two nights, Wednesday and Thursday, May 25 and 26, in the Narberth School Auditorium. The stage and seating arrangements here are well adapted to the production of such a play, and the attractive atmosphere has the real "little theatre" aspect, which is so pleasing to the artistically minded.

Subscribers, of course, will attend the play by virtue of their season's tickets, and others will be wise to place an order for their seats well in advance, as the seating capacity is of course, limited.

Mrs. C. Arley Farmer is coaching the cast, and Mrs. Kathleen McConnell will have the lead.

In Bryn Mawr Fete

ELLEN HAND SHAW,
daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Y. Shaw, of 507 S. Narberth avenue, Merion, a senior at Bryn Mawr College, as she will appear in the May Day fete to be given at the College this Friday and Saturday.

All Interested in Matter Urged to be Present at School Auditorium

TO ASCERTAIN OPINION

The findings of the Narberth Citizens' Committee investigating the feasibility of merging the Borough with Lower Merion Township will be presented at a public meeting to be held at the Narberth Public School auditorium on Tuesday night.

The petition prepared by Franklin D. Wright, Norristown attorney, addressed to the Court of Quarter Sessions, asking nullification of the Borough's Charter, will also be presented. The petition has not yet been circulated nor signatures sought.

Everyone interested in the matter, either for or against, is urged to attend the meeting, and it is likely that a show of hands or some other means will be taken to ascertain sentiment of Borough residents on the matter.

A report on the findings of the Citizens' Committee was submitted to the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners on April 3. According to this report a merger of the Borough and Township would mean an approximate saving of $15,000 per year to taxpayers of the Borough. Elimination of duplicate functions, it was pointed out, would afford Borough taxpayers this saving and still provide the Township with sufficient revenue to meet operating expenses for the Narberth area.

A committee of the Board of Commissioners checked the figures presented by the Citizens' Committee and notified the group that their findings, as regards the Township functions were correct.

According to the State law it is necessary to secure the signatures of two-thirds of the taxable residents of the Borough on the petition before it will be considered by the Court of Quarter Sessions.

The movement for a merger arose out of a citizens' meeting called to discuss the possibility of retaining the Eighth Grade of the Narberth School. It was felt that the educational interests of the Borough would best be served by a merger of the two school districts, or this being impractical, by the merger of the Borough in its entirety with Lower Merion.

Members of the Citizens' Committee who have been investigating the matter are: Arthur W. Burns, chairman; H. L. Woehling, R. L. Rankin, Archie G. Sparks, Louis A. Young and D. Warren Wright.

How Utility is Fighting Depression Told at Rotary

Edward M. Frisk, vice-president and general manager for the Bell Telephone System in Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, described to members of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday what his organization thinks of the future.

"We are looking ahead, building for the future, confident that a favorable turn will come," he said. "We know that eventually you will want more and more telephones, and that our responsibility is to be ready to serve you when and as that service may be required."

"In 1931, for the first time, the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania showed a net loss in phones—29,000, together with a loss of revenue of $2,500,000, compared with 1930. This year we anticipate a further loss of over four million. You can see in this that the company is sharing the depression, and is feeling it now more than ever."

"But there has been no lowering of standards and no layoffs. We are working on a part-time basis, and maintaining a high level of plant maintenance and replacement, $28,000,000 is being spent in this way this year. Our advertising in newspapers and sales force have also been increased."

Mulieres Meeting Monday

The Mulieres of the Narberth Fire Company will hold their regular monthly meeting in Elm Hall, on Monday afternoon, at 2 P. M. Following the meeting there will be a card party for the members. Guest fee, 25 cents. This will be the last business meeting of the season, as there will be no meetings in June, July or August. The Mulieres are planning a series of card parties to be held at the homes of the members during the summer.

New Girl Scouts

Girl Scout Troop, No. 47, received four new members at its meeting this week. Kathryn Baily, Annette Warden, Maria Markle and Martha Duffy were initiated and received pins.

Narberth's Roll Call

The Citizens' Committee, which we thought was created for purposes of investigation only, but which is now advocating the merger of Narberth and the Township, has called a meeting for next week and urges that all citizens who are interested in the subject, either for or against, should attend. If they all do, that small auditorium at the schoolhouse will not be half large enough to hold them. It would be better to hold the meeting on a Sunday evening in the Narberth Theatre, the owners of which are always generous in their attitude toward community affairs.

It seemed as though the recent primary campaign had stirred the citizens of Narberth, but the interest which they manifested in that was small compared with the thought they have been giving to the merger proposal. This is not a matter of Republicans or Democrats or of factions thereof. It concerns every citizen in the Borough, and, so far as we are able to judge, they are making it very much their concern.

We have been reliably informed that some citizens of Narberth have been taking the time to go about in their automobiles to compare the general condition of the streets and roads of the Township with those of the Borough, and, as was indicated by Mrs. Harris in her published letter last week, the reports are in favor of the Borough.

A citizen who attended a purely political meeting among the Italians on Woodbine avenue recently told us that as soon as the stated political program had come to an end, several of the Italian citizens came up and inquired somewhat anxiously about the proposal to merge with the Township. They seemed to be not only opposed, but actually fearful of some aspects of the merger.

Another interesting aspect of this proposal and an indication of the wide interest that it has aroused grow out of the fact that citizens of the Township are talking with Narberth citizens about it, animated by a friendly assumption that of course the people of Narberth should be "taken in." Those Township people are rather surprised when it is revealed to them that many Narberth citizens would rather pay higher taxes and remain independent; that they actually prefer the Borough government to that of the Township, good and economical as that is admitted to be.

The citizens' meeting next week, confronted by the formal petition for the extinction of Narberth, expertly prepared by a Norristown lawyer, will really be a calling of the roll for Narberth. There should and probably will be a showing of hands or something to indicate the sentiment of that gathering, after the arguments for both sides have been attentively heard. It is quite likely that the fate of the Borough will be decided that night.

Let all of those who estimate local government in the terms of tax bills be sure to be present. They will be needed, every one, to support that lawyer's screed. Let them stand up and be counted. And those who prefer a continuation of local self-government as we now have it, whether for practical or sentimental reasons, must let no bridge, whist or other diversions prevent them from keeping an appointment with that merger matter that evening. They have not yet had their day in Court. This will be their opportunity.

The meeting is called by those who favor the merger. To be recorded against it, every citizen must be physically present. Absence will signify consent or, at the least, indifference—which amounts to the same thing.

And, finally, it should be kept in mind that, while the merger of the entire Borough with the Township would undoubtedly be the easiest way for the matter to be accomplished—and that is why the Citizens' Committee is so proceeding—actually, if any change is desirable, it is not beyond the bounds of possibility to attempt a merger of the Narberth school district with that of the Township, even if a special act by the Legislature should be needed to accomplish it. It is not necessary to sacrifice a successful borough government in order to solve a problem which is primarily a matter of the public school.

Berates "Circular Nuisance"

To the Editor of "Our Town":
Once more the house-to-house circular nuisance is in our midst, and unfortunately some of those who are responsible for it are some of our own local merchants. I say "unfortunately" because our local merchants are, generally speaking, serving a local need and are deserving of local patronage, and yet every time they litter our lawns and porches with their circulars they are destroying the good-will which is the basis of their local trade.

There was a time, possibly, when merchants were justified in their house-to-house distribution of printed circulars, but—if you will pardon me for bringing your own publication into the discussion, that time passed, years ago, with the establishment, by the late Civic Association, of our local newspaper. Today this paper is serving as a medium for reaching the residents of our borough more thoroughly than at any time in the past, and under these circumstances there is no excuse for a circular nuisance. I am well aware that it costs money to advertise in a newspaper, but I am also aware that it costs money to have circulars printed and distributed, and, in addition, it costs the merchant a certain amount of good-will every time he distributes his circulars. And this, of course, is as true of the chain store operator as it is of the strictly local merchant. Incidentally, I am under the impression that there is a Borough Ordinance prohibiting house-to-house distribution of circulars; but if there isn't there ought to be.

Finally a word of thanks and appreciation to those of our local merchants who do not participate in the "circular nuisance," and do everything they can to co-operation with our residents to make the "clean-up" idea a 52-weeks-a-year proposition.

Sincerely,

E. A. Muschamp.

A Toast to Mothers

To the Editor of "Our Town":
The best friend you and I ever had is Mother. You remember how the verse goes—"Who kissed the part to make it well?—My Mother!" Mother is the dearest one we have, and if we lose her, we cannot buy another if we had all the gold in the world.

Let me suggest that you go by the dictates of your conscience and go to church next Sunday, May 8, and hear a Mother's Day sermon. In case you have no regular place of worship to hang up your hat, I would suggest you accept the cordial invitation extended you and your friends and neighbors at the Narberth Presbyterian Church.

Harken to Mrs. Karnell on the subject, "Mothers as Master Builders." Bear in mind if you are not more than pleased and satisfied with this talk, the Women's Bible Class will refund you whatever you give towards the usual plate collection, if it is only a wooden nickel.

THE "DON'T WORRY MAN."

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. S. Robert Ross, of Elm Terrace, Narberth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Ella Ross, and Mr. Richard Godwin Scull, son of Mrs. Charles G. Frowert, of Shirley road, Narberth. Miss Ross is a graduate of the Lower Merion High School and is a Librarian at the Bala-Cynwyd Library.

Miss Marjorie Church and Miss Margaret Gassner entertained at tea last Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Church, in the Baird Apartments, at which the engagement of Miss Ethel Louise Williams and Mr. Albert W. Ward, Jr., of Narberth, was announced.

Mrs. Victor Herbert, of Grand Isle, Vermont, has been the guest of Miss Ada C. Nesper, of Merion avenue, during the past week.

The Recall

A pleasant stream flowed through The Vagrant's boyhood, and abiding still in his memory, draws him back year after year to the region where his ancestors cleared the land and won a precarious living from an unfriendly soil. Your true vagabond knows no home, all lands and all men are alike to him, except that those over the next horizon are more alluring. With The Vagrant, however, there is always one horizon that beckons more insistently, that calls him back over seas and lands and that, when he enters it, enfolds him as a native son. The people dwelling there now may be strangers, the great automobile highways and their ceaseless traffic certainly are alien intrusions, but the hills and the streams, the rocks and the climate, they are the same, not more beautiful nor more interesting than any others, but they are to The Vagrant bone of his bone and life of his life. God pity and help the man who knows not, for more than a generation or two, whence he came nor the land which nurtured his fathers and now enfolds their bones. To them, possibly, "The Recall" by Kipling has no meaning. Kipling had wandered. He knew and he wrote as follows:

I am the land of their fathers,
In me the virtue stays;
I will bring back my children,
After certain days.

Under their feet in the grasses
My clinging magic runs.
They shall return as strangers,
They shall remain as sons.

Over their heads in the branches
Of their new-bought, ancient trees,
I weave an incantation,
And draw them to my knees.

Scent of smoke in the evening,
Smell of rain in the night,
The hours, the days, and the seasons
Order their souls aright;

Till I make plain the meaning
Of all my thousand years—
Till I fill their hearts with knowledge,
While I fill their eyes with tears.

An Habitation Enforced

Rather jingly poetry, isn't it? Kipling is really quite outmoded by the realistic writers who have held our attention these ten years past! The Vagrant can't agree with those sentiments, even though weakly he admits their prevalence and seems to defer to those readers who may exclaim, "My word! he's actually quoting Kipling. I've been suspecting he was Victorian all along." It is all true. The Vagrant still reads, or rather re-reads Kipling, and of all his stories the one which he has read the most is that which is introduced by the poem that is quoted this week. It is named "An Habitation Enforced" and is the first story in the volume, "Actions and Reactions." It is the only Kipling story, so far as The Vagrant is aware, in which Americans are presented in a favorable light, and even there they are greatly modified in their Americanism before the story ends. At least it is to Kipling's credit that he was never influenced in the free expression of his opinions by the large revenues which have always accrued to him from the United States. And it is equally creditable to Americans that they have regarded him so highly.

Terrance Muldoon

On the way to Clessons River, free again and on the road, The Vagrant met his old friend, Terrance Muldoon, and after the usual complaints and commiserations regarding the personal aspects of the depression, this is exactly what Muldoon had to say, "Last Sunday I went up into Wessex and while the rest of my bunch worked spring cleaning their farm, I took a walk and found a few May flowers (arbutus). I didn't enjoy myself, for where I went they have found rattlesnakes. Every stick I stepped on wriggled at the other end and made my heart leap and bound. I saw a lot of yellow violets, too. If this damed depression hadn't bust in my face, I had intended to go to the New York Flower Show and to go over to Philadelphia and see you. But I couldn't make it, so I stayed home those days and re-read Trollope's Barchester series and was amazed that I liked them the second time nearly as well as I did the first." Terrance Muldoon is a gentleman, a bachelor, and an amateur botanist of remarkable merit. The Vagrant has known him, man and boy, for 40 years, and wishes, for his readers' sakes, that Terrance could enter this column more frequently.

THE VAGRANT.

Local Movies

Egyptian Notes

Wallace Beery and Clark Gable are starred in "Hell Divers," a story of naval fliers, playing at the Egyptian this week-end. Filmed at Panama during the naval maneuvers, aboard the "Saratoga," and at North Island, the picture has all the sensations of the great naval concentration in which the entire battle fleet figured. Bombing planes, known as "Hell Divers," hurl themselves straight down two miles in less than half a minute, to catapult bombs at a ship's target. The story is very interesting and exciting.

"Shanghai Express," at the Cynwyd playhouse next Monday and Tuesday, is a triumph for Director Von Sternberg and Star Marlene Dietrich, aided by Clive Brook, Warner Oland, Anna May Wong, Eugene Pallette and Gustav von Seyffertitz. The intrigues and adventures during a train ride from Peking to Shanghai changes the lives of 200 people.

Wednesday and Thursday, including a Wednesday matinee at 3.45, for school children and their elders, will enjoy Joe E. Brown's latest comedy, "Fireman, Save My Child."

Not a tremendous plot, but a very human and pleasing tale, is "Men in Her Life," starring Lois Moran, of "Transatlantic," etc., and Charles Bickford, of "Anna Christie," who here have a different and interesting role. One novel scene: Demonstrating fine points of football to patrons in a Parisian cafe.

Narberth Movie Notes

Another all-comedy program is showing at the Narberth Theatre this week-end: El Brendel, Sally Eilers and Spencer Tracy in a clean and enjoyable feature, "Disorderly Conduct," and a Silly Symphony and Zasu Pitts-Thelma Todd comedy.

Ruth Chatterton, Paul Lukas and Robert Ames will appear in Philip Barry's play's movie version, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," next Monday and Tuesday. MRS. MINNIE KARNELL who will talk at the Mother's Day program at the Narberth Presbyterian Church this Sunday evening.

Volunteers' Aid Sought in Mother's Day Program

At a meeting of the volunteer workers of the Child Health Centers of the Community Health and Civic Association held at their headquarters Tuesday, Miss Mildred E. Martin, Director of the Public Health Nursing Service, asked their assistance in a campaign being conducted during the week of Mother's Day in the interest of securing better care for mothers and lowering our high maternal mortality rate.

Miss Martin stated that many people do not realize that the mortality rate from maternity cases in the United States is three times as high as it should be. This need not be the case and Mother's Day is a suitable time to draw attention to this deplorable situation, she pointed out.

Dr. Andrew Mutch, chairman of the Health Committee, thanked the volunteers for the splendid, faithful, Christ-life service they are rendering the organization and community through their work at the Health Centers. Seventy-one women have served as volunteers 877 times at the five Child Health Centers during the past twelve months. Mrs. William Goodman, Bryn Mawr, heads the honor-roll, having served 73 times at the Ardmore Center during the past year.

These Centers, which are located in Ardmore, Bryn Mawr, Narberth, Oakmont and West Manayunk, had a total attendance of 5747 during the year April 1, 1931, to March 31, 1932—an increase of 730 over the preceding twelve months. They are conducted for the purpose of promoting health and preventing disease in infant and pre-school children.

BUSINESS BITS

Guaranteeing that shoes he resolves will give three times the wear of ordinary soles, B. G. Constantine, of the Goodwear Shoe Repair Shop, 252 Haverford avenue, is trying an experiment this month. If he can get enough people to keep an extra man in his shop busy all the time, he can just afford, he says, to cut his prices radically. Maintaining the same standard of materials and work that have satisfied many of his customers for 20 years, he is offering cut prices during May. "My customers know my work has been worth the price," he said this week, "but many people are attracted to other places in Philadelphia, where a cheap repair job is done cheaply. You don't send costly jewelry to a blacksmith for repairs; I want to give people a real opportunity to get value for their money by having their shoes repaired right."

Unemployment Relief Plan Advanced by Narberth Man

A concrete plan to relieve the unemployment situation is being advanced by a Narberth resident.

Francis S. Challenger, of 222 Lantwyn lane, for many years in the employ of a large city store, is setting up an interior furnishing business by which he hopes to give employment to a group of skilled workers, who have been indefinitely laid off by some of the best city shops.

These men, many of them ex-service men, and Main Line residents, are a self-respecting group and are anxious to continue working at their regular trades instead of being forced to accept public charity.

The success of the plan will depend on the co-operation and support of the public. Among articles which can be supplied at manufacturing prices are draperies, slip covers, glass curtains, upholstered and summer furniture. In addition reupholstering and reconditioning of furniture of any description will be done.

Mr. Challenger emphasizes the fact that local men will be given preference so far as possible and that all those who will be employed in the work are men skilled in the trades of weaving, cabinet work and furniture making.

The more work made available, the more unemployment will be relieved by this plan.

Sub-Juniors Hear Keighton

The Sub-Junior Department of the Women's Community Club of Narberth held a meeting on Monday evening in the Girl Scout Wing of the Community Building. The Rev. Robert E. Keighton was the speaker. Plans are being made by the Sub-Juniors for a garden and card party early in June. Full details will be announced later.

A MESSAGE TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF NARBERTH

If a Salesman,

unshaven, ragged, dirty, opened the back door of your home and shouted "Buy blank's tires!"—would you buy?

"Waste basket salemen"

are what newspaper men call handbills—because they are not delivered in a reputable manner, and usually are not read, but are consigned to waste paper baskets. This sometimes goes for direct-mail sales letters and booklets—depending, of course, on how distinctive and interesting they are on first glance.

"You shouldn't send a boy on a man's errand"

is an expression applied not only to playing a six of trump when the king is required, but also to employing feeble means of selling goods and services.

--All of which is by way of leading up to this truth, witnessed by dozens of progressive business people in this community:—That no printed means of selling residents here is nearly so effective as advertising in the community paper that people pay to read, every week in the year. This community's paper has been the means of selling hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of commodities and services.

The buyers are the fine class of residents who moved to the suburbs to enjoy just such advantages over city life as comparative freedom from circulars-on-doorsteps and peddlers-at-doors; and who enjoy taking part in the club, social and political life of a small community—all of whose news the local paper—and the local paper alone—records each week.

To Preserve a Community

its individuality must be maintained, in church, school, club, government—AND THE NEWS ORGAN THAT REFLECTS AND REPORTS THAT INDIVIDUALITY.

Everyone can help

And this paper needs and welcomes your aid: Subscriptions . . . Contributed news items . . . Tolerance of minor editorial and typographical errors . . . Advertisements . . . Response to advertisements, to encourage those who advertise . . . And so on.

--That is, IF you take pride in your community, and want to preserve and improve the services offered you by its newspaper and the business houses who advertise — or should advertise—in this paper.

Mother's Day

Wear a pretty white carnation
On your coat for Mother's Day;
Wear it if she still is living
Or if she has passed away.

If she's living, it will please her.
If she is not here to see,
If she's passed beyond the portals,
Wear it in sweet memory.

Of the mother who has loved you Ever since she gave you birth,
By the sweetness of her presence
Made for you a heaven on earth.

"Government and Economics" is 2d Library Reading List

"Government and Economics," the second in the series of reading lists prepared by the Library for the benefit of its patrons who may desire to systematize their reading, is announced this week.

Sub-titled "The Bases of Civilization," this list includes a score of books, some fresh from the presses, and others which are classics in the field, having stood the test of time. Government and economics, it is felt, has come to have a greater significance to the everyday reader than ever before on account of the present-day conditions.

This comprehensive list includes analyses of conditions today, together with forecasts of way of economic recovery.

1.—"In Defense of Tomorrow," by Robert Douglas Bowden. An interpretative defense of the machine age by one who sees order and sequence in American civilization.

2.—"Mexico" by Stuart Chase. A study of a machine-less civilization which intrigued one of the country's leading economists.

3.—"New Russia's Primer," by M. Ilin. (Translated.) The story of the 5-year Plan by a Russian Engineer, written for the Russian people themselves.

4.—"Humanity Uprooted," by Maurice Hindus. An impartial account of affairs in Russia.

5.—"Red Trade Menace," by H. V. Knickerbocker. A study of Russian business activities in their effect upon the rest of the world.

6.—"Politics," by Harold J. Laski. One hour's reading on the fundamentals of political organization by an English authority—who is a frequent contributor to Harper's.

7.—"The Road to Plenty," by Foster and Catchings. Economic problems discussed from various viewpoints in the form of dialogues. Easy reading.

8.—"Liberty," by Everett Dean Martin. Liberty surveyed historically and an analysis of its state in the modern world by the director of the People's Institute, New York.

9.—"Tammany Hall," by M. R. Werner. The most famed institution in American politics and its leaders, vividly portrayed.

10.—"The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism," by George Bernard Shaw. What Socialism really is by one of its earliest and wittiest exponents. For men also.

11.—"The United States in World Affairs," by Walter Lippman and W. O. Scroggs. Interprets the dramatic events of the past year, up to the Manchurian affair.

12.—"Red Smoke," by Isaac Don Levine. Narrative of Russia's 5-year Plan based on authentic facts and documents.

13.—"On Liberty," by John Stuart Mill. Of perennial value for its profound analysis of the problems of democracy and representative government.

14.—"American Leviathan," by Charles and William Beard. A penetrating appraisal of the American political system with detailed and interesting information on all phases of government.

15.—"Whither Mankind," edited by Charles Beard. What the future holds for the human race—a symposium by eminent authorities in various fields.

16.—"America Comes of Age," by Andre Siegfried. One of the most brilliant of French economists and sociologists makes an acute analysis of the American scene.

17.—"Prosperity, Fact or Myth," by Stuart Chase. Written just before the 1929 Stock Market Crash, it chronicles what prosperity meant to the man in the street and his family.

18.—"Middletown," by Robert S. Lynd and Helen Merrell Lynd. No one can really know his America until he has first read and mastered "Middletown," according to Stuart Chase.

19.—"Recovery, the Second Effort," by Sir Arthur Salter. A different view of the World depression with the probable way out. Walter Lippman says that in ten years Salter's views will be universally adopted.

20.—"As I See It," by Norman Thomas. Discusses present political issues and the ideals and practices of modern Christianity and Socialism.

Mrs. Evaline Glanz
Funeral services were held last Saturday at 2.30 for Mrs. Evaline Glanz, wife of Ferdinand H. W. Glanz, of 103 Woodside avenue, Narberth, who died suddenly last Wednesday. A semi-invalid for about ten years, Mrs.
Glanz was stricken very suddenly in the morning and died a few hours later.

The services were in charge of the Rev. Roland Graham, former pastor of the Narberth Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Jones. Interment was in Westminster Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Charles Glanz, of Cynwyd.

Mrs. Glanz was a resident of the Borough for the past twenty-six years and before her illness was very active in the Presbyterian Church.

L. M. High School Notes

By BILL MACAN

The coming of the end of the school year was witnessed by the announcement of the valedictorian and saluta-tarian of the outgoing class. This week Principal George H. Gilbert announced that Sherwin T. McDowell was the recipient of the highest award, while Robert Hutchinson is the salutarian. McDowell was the editor-in-chief of the year book, "The Enchiridion," and has been active in debating and student council work.
Hutchinson, a resident of Narberth, has played a large part in the Band and in the Student Council.

A new comer in school activities is being tried today (Friday) in the form of a gym exhibition held on the athletic field. Both the boys' and the girls' classes have grouped together to present this performance. As the program shows, it is not only a pleasing spectacle to watch, but it is also an amusing event to be in. First, there is a Mass Drill by both the boys and girls; the girls' classes will present a dance; the girls' races, including relays by classes, will follow. Then the boys will have a volley ball game, which will be followed by a tumbling exhibit by the Gym Club. German rhythmic dances are next on the program. The boys will end up the afternoon with three events: a game of touch football, races and relays by classes, and a tug-of-war. The program has been planned by William H. Anderson and Katherin Rambo, the boys' and girls' gym instructors, and it will be started this afternoon at about 1.15 P. M.

A "Mother and Son" Dinner was presented last night by the Boys' H-Y, held in the Square Cafe, the dinner was served about six o'clock and was followed by a program consisting of a solo by Andrew Simpson and an address by the Rev. Edmund G. Rawson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Ardmore. The banquet ended with the showing of pictures taken on the recent trip to Washington by the Senior Class.

The student body enjoyed the rare pleasure of hearing a speech by Rabbi William H. Fineshriber in the assembly today.

Starting this Saturday there will be free golf lessons at the Marble Hall Golf Links, given by John Griffen. The lessons will be taught for the boys from 9-10 A. M., and for the girls from 10-11 A. M. Instructions will be given each Saturday for boys and girls from 14 to 17 years of age.

Golden Age of Elizabeth Returns to Earth at Bryn Mawr Campus

Five Hundred College Girls to Participate in Gorgeous May Day Fete This Friday and Saturday Afternoons

The golden age of Elizabeth of England will return to earth today and tomorrow in order that men of the machine age may obtain a brief respite from the world they have created. Time will lift the curtain on the past and quickly bring it down again, but in the interim the gorgeous pageantry of Gloriana's day, old romantic plays and quaint dances stepped to ancient tunes will have had their chance to prove to moderns that the sixteenth century had its points.

To this end the Elizabethan May Day, given only once in four years at Bryn Mawr College, has been planned with meticulous attention to costumes, dances, plays and procession. When the Queen's Champion, followed by six heralds in black and gold, rides from the shadows of Pembroke Arch this afternoon, it should take very little imagination to convince one that some 500 college girls have undergone a metamorphosis; that the people in the long and colorful procession emerging from the portals of the tall, square, ivy-clad tower are, without doubt, authentic English knights, archers, villagers, morrice dancers and other folk of the most romantic period of Anglo-Saxon history and literature.

May Day begins at 2.45 P. M., daylight time, with the procession which, forming outside the campus, proceeds through the ivy-covered Gothic gate to Merion Green. Following after the Champion and heralds come archers and the Garter King at Arms, and then the great Elizabeth herself—a part played by Cornelia Otis Skinner, a Bryn Mawr alumna. The Queen is borne high in a litter carried on the shoulders of great courtiers—the Earls of Oxford and Shrewsbury, Sir Walter Raleigh and others—and is followed by an outrider on a cock horse, the Oxford worthies and many other notable folk.

Then come the Lord and Lady of the May, she being Maid Marion and he bold Robin Hood, parts played respectively by Cornelia Drake, a junior, and a lineal descendant of Sir Francis Drake, famous Elizabethan Admiral and Margaret Righter, a sophomore, of Princeton, N. J. In this company appears that woeful swain, Alan-a-Dale—played by Clara Frances Grant, great-granddaughter of President Ulysses S. Grant—and his beloved, Fair Ellen, played by Junia Culbertson, daughter of the American Ambassador to Chile, and Mrs. Culbertson;—King Richard and the faithless Prince John, Friar Tuck, Little John, Will Scarlet and a band of merry-men.

The fairies of Titania's Court—Moth, Mustardseed, Peaseblossom, Cobweb and a First Fairy with a speaking part she has done her best to remember—will also play an important part in the fete. In everyday life they are the small daughters of Main Line and Philadelphia notables; small ones of five, six and seven years, vastly concerned with affairs of school and play and not lacking in mischief. But when they appear to scatter rose petals as the May Queen is escorted to her throne by Robin Hood, when they play their parts in "A Midsummer Night's Dream"—one of six plays to be given—they will be, or so their parents hope, the veritable good fairies Will Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote them into his play.

Little Miss Charlton Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Jacobs, of Haverford, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, will play the part of "Moth;" Miss Lois Wells, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roger Wells, of Bryn Mawr, will be "Cobweb;" Miss Janine Daudon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Daudon, of Haverford, will play "Peaseblossom;" Miss Maysie Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney S. Morris, of Berwyn, will play "Mustardseed," and her sister, Jane, is that First Fairy who has tried so hard to remember.

It is the First Fairy who appears in the scene with Robin Goodfellow, played by Elaine King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Arthur King, of Bryn Mawr.

Music will play an important part in the May Day fete. Under the direction of F. H. Ernest Willoughby, of the Department of Music, a group of twenty-four musicians will play in the procession which opens the fete and for dances throughout the afternoon. Marches rarely heard since they echoed in London streets more than three hundred years ago will bring the procession—in which will appear Queen Elizabeth and many other notables—through Pembroke Arch to Merion Green.

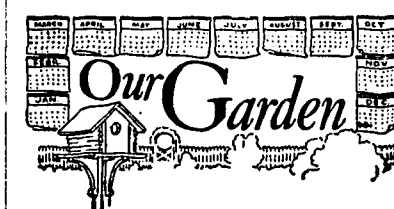

Among the tunes to be played will be "Chelsea Reach," "Bobbing Joe," "Haste to the Wedding" and "Come Lassies and Lads."

The instrumentation has been specially selected with a view to keeping the music in the spirit of the Elizabethan era, said Mr. Willoughby. Bands of Morris Men will dance the ancient folk dances known as the "morrice or morris" to such tunes as "Lads a Bunchum," "Leap Frog" and

"Bean Setting" and jig to the tunes of "Old Mother Oxford" and "None So Pretty." Country dancers will step it to "Newcastle," "The Old Mole" and "Parson's Farewell," while "Peascods," "29th of May" and "Selenger's Round" will be danced by all in celebration of the crowning of Maid Marion as Queen of the May.

All the music for the pageant and the dances on the Green has been specially orchestrated by Mr. Willoughby. For incidental music to be played between the dances he has called upon two 6th century worthies—John Morley, founder of a school of madrigal singing, whose "Now Is the Month of Maying" will be played; and John Bull, also a writer of madrigals, or unaccompanied part songs.

May Day is under the general direction of Mrs. J. C. Chadwick-Collins, with Mr. Samuel Arthur King, noted Shakespearean reader, as Director of Plays, and Miss Josephine Petts as Director of the Green.

And with the real spring comes the uncoiling fronds of ferns.

"Sow outdoors when the maples are in leaf." Now we may sow out the tender things with scarce any likelihood of frosts.

This spring has been warmer than that of 1931 by a total of 253 degrees. And wetter by six inches of rainfall.

So that 1932 should be a most successful garden season for flowers—and weeds.

Those nice pointed blades that seem so prolific in bare spots are seedlings of crab grass. Clean them out.

Not too late to grub-proof the lawn against grubs of Japanese beetles. Six pounds of dry arsenate of lead powder to a bushel of sand, well mixed and evenly distributed over each thousand square feet of surface, will kill many potential leaf-eating beetles.

Phlox subulata variety vivid is much more satisfactory than the wild type. It's color is a soft pink without magenta, and it does not sprawl so wildly, which point is decidedly in its favor.

Acid phosphate, also known as superphosphate, is a quick-acting source of phosphoric acid, which, by the way, is the principal element in bone meal. Bone meal is slow to act, bone flour is faster, while superphosphate is the real forcer for making flowers and fruit. Always use potash, either hardwood ashes, muriate of potash or sulphate of potash to make a balanced fertilizer. The nitrogen sources, such as nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia, are usually overdone. The place for them is in the kitchen garden and not in the flower garden.

May time is gladiolus planting time. The average flowering time is 90 days, so that May planting should give us August flowers and June planting September flowers. The early planted bulbs will make better bulbs for next season. If the gardener is able to afford new bulbs every year, plant them in June and enjoy them when you return from Maine in September. Or—maybe we will not go away this summer—or, maybe we cannot buy any bulbs this spring. These garden folks have a way of finding the necessary cash to provide bulbs, seeds and plants—and little Willie usually gets his shoes, too.

Doggone if the first cat bird didn't arrive on schedule—May 2d. And come to think of it, the first wren was observed on his arrival date, last Saturday, April 30. Let us look for the scarlet tanager on May 9 and humming birds on May 13. After June 15 the humming birds will be found sampling the various blues of delphiniums.

Only five more weeks until spring flower show time.

Feed the roses and use all three sprays—one fungicide for black spot and mildew, one poison spray for slugs and rose chafers and one contact insecticide, such as pyrethrum-soap, for aphids. Or—better still, use the Massey dust formula of nine parts of fine dusting sulphur to one part of powdered arsenate of lead, dusted on top and bottom of the foliage. This serves as fungicide and poison for lead-eating insects. Dry Bordeaux powder, sprinkled on the ground, will also help to prevent the spread of black spot. This same dry powder will also help to prevent root-rot on delphiniums.

the scenes, helping the moon to rise, branches to wave and thunder to roll. Great amounts of laughter and applause greeted the performance.

The final treat of the evening was given by a guest soloist, Miss Margaret I. Harshaw, who rendered several numbers, and was pressed to render additional ones by the girls, who, one and all, enjoyed Miss Harshaw's singing and choice of program. The numbers sung, to the accompaniment of her sister, Mrs. Miriam L. Kuebler, were as follows: "None But the Lonely Heart," Tschalkovsky; "I Love Life," Man-Zucka; "In the Luxembourg Gardens," Manning; "The Worm," Evans, and "On the Shore," by Neidlinger. Miss Harshaw's voice was very beautiful, and the numbers were rendered with such sincerity of feeling that it can be well understood why she attained second place in last season's Atwater-Kent Radio audition contest for the Philadelphia district. The girls considered it a great privilege to have had Miss Harshaw as their guest, and appreciated the pleasure she afforded them.

Tea and sandwiches were served and the meeting adjourned. The next big event is the Mothers' and Daughters' Banquet to be held at Esham Manor Inn on Thursday, May 12. Each girl is to bring her mother, or some friend to take mother's place, and a "party" dinner will be served, with favors and entertainment to make it a gala occasion. Mrs. Edgar Marburg, district chairman of Juniors, will be the guest speaker.
